Badly Abused An Apprentice

Officers Of Ship Alexander Black Accused Of Cruel Conduct to Lad.

Made Him Strip While It Was Snowing and Walk Around the Capstan,

Alex. Black and Hugh M. Williams, third officer of that ship, and son of the master, were brought up before Police Magistrate Hall in the provincial police court yesterday afternoon charged with assaulting Alfred Steele, an apprentice of that ship. They were accused of abusing the boy shamefully, but escaped with a light punishment. The charge against the mate, who is undergoing a sentence of three months' imprisonment for assault, was withdrawn, the police being of opinion that in doing the three months he was being punished sufficiently. A piea for leniency was also made for the third mate, for, if he was given a long sentence he would be prevented from going—back to England with his ship. He pleaded guilty, but said he had been acting under orders from the mate. The complaint against him was one of common assault. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $20 or one month, this being the maximum pecuniary punishment for the offence charged.

Magistrate Hall severely lectured the accused. He said: "The charge against you is laid in simple form. The oriense as charged is a aght one, but I think it is only right for me to say, you being a young man, and probably intending to follow the sea all your life, and may rise in position until you become master of a vessel yourself, that this kind of treatment to men in your charge is wrong. Authority and punishment. Officers of a ship have no right to abuse men. The kind of treatment given this toy received might lead to serious consequences. It might have been the means of bringing on disease which would eventually cause death. That is not lawful. It is stated to me that you did this under orders from the mate. This does not justify you. You are not supposed to carry out unlawful orders. Your duty is to refuse to do them. Officers of a ship have no right to be brufal. You could be imprisoned, but as this would work hardship, and you the master, were brought up before Police Magistrate Hall in the provincial

According to the statement of the apprentice Steele, who is now in charge of Mr. B. H. He states that he was kicked about the deck by the mate, and on 20 or 30 occasions during the voyage made to carry some wooden stools about the deck for two or three hours at a stretch, and on one occasion for four hours. He was required by the mate to stand on a spar for two or three hours at a time, and a kicking was threatened if he fell off. This happened nine times. The states represented by the undersigned therefore consider that they should repeal the proposal already made by them before the war, but rejected by England to submit to arbitration the settlement of the differences which gave rise to the war. In this way particularly, however, in view of the question whether England is right in alleging that an action was taken by the republics which had for its object the suppressing of English element or expulsion from South Africa and generally whether the republics have made themselves guilty of any act which according to internationally recognized principles would give England the right to deprive them of their independence, the undersigned moreover allege that England already at the outbreak of the war commenced and has ever since continued to act in contravention of the rules of war between civilized powers as generally and also by England herself acknowledged and as columly confirmed by the Hague convention of 29th July, 1899, concerning the laws and usages ofwar by land and more particularly in contravention of certain articles of the said rules, whilst England has moreover quite recently by proclamation issued by Field Marshal Lord Kitchener at Pretoria and dated the 5th day of August, 1901, virtually notified that she intends shortly to take action in contravention of article 20 also.

"The governments of the states represented by the undersigned are fully prepared as soon as an opporture, by thereto shall be afforded them to substantiate the allegations herein setting forth and proving the particular facts to which they refer. STRUCK BY

STREET CAR

Sailor Asleep Alongside Tram way Track on the Esquimalt Road.

A signal man named Sprague, a member of the crew of Is. M. S. Amphion, was struck by a car on the Esquimalt line late on Thursday night, and lies at the Naval hospital in a critical condition, the doctors as yet being unable to say whether he will recover. It was shortly after 11 o'clock when Motorman Skipper in charge of the last car to Esquimalt noticed as the ear was passing the Admiral's road crossing a dark object lying beside the track. He quickly applied the brakes and had just about brought the car to a standstill when the guard rail struck the object, which on investigation proved to be the body of the bluejacket, who had evidently fallen asleep beside the track. The rail struck the man on the side of the head, inflicting an ugly scalp wound. It was thought at first that he could not recover, but last night, although they could not say that he would recover, the hospital unborities reported that Sprague was better.

No blame can be attached to the motorneer, in fact his quickness in applying the brakes provented the man from being mangled by the car as it had been brought almost to a standstill before it struck him. The road where the accident occurred is dark, being shaded on both sides by high trees.

GIFT TO LIBRARY.

U. S. Weather Bureau Predicts a Brisk Hon. J. H. Turner Presents a Valuable Set of Books.

The Hon. J. H. Turner, previous to his leaving Victoria for his important work in London, has presented to the Public Library five large and handsome volumes of "Canada, an Encyclopaedia of the Country," "The Canadian Dominion Considered ir "Storic Relations, Its Natural E. ees, Its Material Progress, and Its National Development," by a corps of eminent writers and specialists, edited by J. Castell Hopkins.

The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited. Doar Sirs,—I can conscientiously recommend Paine's Gelery Compound to all who may be suffering from dyspepsia and liver trouble. For years while living in Black Brook, I suffered from a complication of troubles, and was so bad with dyspepsia that I could not touch a morsel of food. I found it difficult to sleep, and what little I did get was often broken with horrid dreams. Intense sufferings from liver complaint added to my load of agony; I also had dizziness, pains in the back, and was pale, haggard and despendent.

I kept doctoring and dosing without deriving the slightest benefit, and finally gave up all hope of getting well. One day my daughter, who had read of a wonderful cure by Paine's Celery Compound, begged me to try one bottle of the medicine. I told her it was no use to throw away money, but she pleaded so hard, that to please her, I bought a bottle, and before it was used up I felt better. Encouraged so much, I continued with the medicine and improved every day.

I am now cured, than's to Paine's ers and specialists, edited by J. Castell Hookins.

In a preface to the work by Lord Aberdeen, he concludes "Thus the Encyclopaedia of Canada, fitly inaugurated in this ever-memorable year of that inspiring landmark in British history, the Diamond Jubilee of Queer Victoria, may confidently be regarded as a practical advantage not only to Canada by means of the information which it will afford to those who are actually engaged in the work of her development, but also to the people of the Mother Land, by whom Canada is regarded with everincreasing confidence and pride."

These volumes are not only very valuable in the abundant information they give on all topics Canadians wish to be versed in but they are themselves excellent and beautiful in paper, type, morocco binding and illustrations.

The people of Victoria will appreciate the generous gift, and will heartily thank the Hon, Mr. Turner.

ON MAGNETIC HEALING.

Much is spoken and written during of treating disease. The most truly rethese times about this mysterious method markable cases of magnetic healing which have come under the notice of the writers have been those in which Dr. Chse's Ointment was used. This preparation seems to have magnetic powers in stopping the dreadful itching, burning sensations of salt rheum and eczema, and when used regularly makes the cure thorough and permanent.

THE DECORATIONS.

The principal streets have put on a holiday appearance within the past forty-eight hours. Government, Johnson and Yates streets are decked with flags, bunting and evergreens, and, with the arches, present a gay vista. The public buildings and many of the hotels and stores are also profusely decorated and the work is steadily progressing, so that by Monday night the whole will be a blaze of color and light. The Dominien government will decorate the old customs house and the old post office, as well as the new building. Last night the sleet tricians turned on the lights on the post office and for half an hour a large crowd enjoyed the fine spectacle. The whole building is outlined with incandescent lamps, flags float from every window and festoons of bright celored bunting drape the walls from pavenent to roof.

THE ROYAL RESUDENCE.

Mount Baker hotel has been almost entirely remodeled and refitted for the accommodation of the royal party. The house has been practically newly furnished throughout in a most luxurious style. Paul Baygran, who was entrusnished throughout in a most inxurous style. Paul Baygran, who was entrusted with the painting, has succeeded admirably, for everything is in perfect taste and harmony with the furnishings. The work in the dialog room is specially worthy of mention and the Duchess rooms are a marvel of artistic skill, and the same may be said about the other apartments prepared for the royal visitors. In the general arrangements nothing has been left undone which thought could suggest that would add to the comfort and enjoyment of the distinguished guests.

The bulk of the furnishings we reprovided by Weiler Bros, and D. Spencer, while J. W. Mellor and A. Sheret attended to the decorations, plumbing and heating.

NOTES.

NOTES.

Last night the men of the Fifth Regiment who will serve on the guards of honor were being instructed in their duties and drilled at the parliament building, a complete line of sentries being established around the grounds. These were visited, relieved and practised in challenging at intervals and initiated into all the mysteries of "sentry go."

The C. P. R. Telegraphs are stringing a wire and will have an operator in attendance at the Mount Baker hotel.

Up to last night there was very little indication of a general decoration and limination on the residential streets.

The royal standard will float from the flag staff of Mount Baker hotel during the royal occupancy.

City tailors are rushed with orders for dress suits, and as for the dressmakers—their fingers are worked to the bone. The grounds at Mount Baker hotel have been much improved. A new board walls has been aid from the street car terminus, which will be well lighted from end to end.

The sub-committee Lt.-Col. Prior, chairman, will meet this morning at 11 o'clock to confer with Sir Henri Joly on details of the royal reception.

The main building is being rapidly fitted up for the exhibits—in fact, in some few instances, they are already in position. The noise or nammering and sawing is deafening, and one has to step carefully to avoid colliding with the boards, boxes, frames and other impedimenta which are being moved in or placed in position. The decoration committee is at work brightening up the general appearance, and when the exhibitors have added their quotas the building will look very pretty. Every inch of space in the main building, machinery building and implement shed has been taken, the entries of live stock are beyond the expectations of the management, and all the other classes of exhibits are very fully represented. There is not the slightest doubt felt as to the success of the fair so far as the number and quality of exhibits is concerned, the one thing necessary to make the management happy is a large daily attendance, and it is hoped the public will reward their loyal efforts to make Vietoria's first fair of the new century a memorable and self-supporting event.

LIVE STOCK SALE.

One of the great events of the fair from a stockman's point of view will be the sale of pure-bred stock, which will begin on Thursday. Mr. Hadwen, who has the affair in charge, is advised that the three carloads arrived at Calgary on Thursday last, and he is anxious about transport from the Mainland, but hopes to have them on the grounds and in perfect condition in time for the sale. The cattle, pigs and sheep included in this shipment are higher priced animals than those sold at New Westminster last spring. There are 10 Shorthorn bulls, some of which are exceedingly well bred, five Shorthora cows from the East and six from the experimental farm at Agassiz, which were imported from the East during the summer. There is a good bunch of Ayrshires and Jerseys, including some local stock. There is also a Red Polled bull, a fine beast, owned by Capt. Barkley, of Westholme.

The pigs and sheep are also of the best strains and there are several choice specimens of local bred animals from Shannon Bros' and A. C. Wells' ranches. Several of the cattle which will be offered for sale were prize winners at London and Toronto.

Apart from the stock which will be offered for sale were prize winders at London and Toronto.

Apart from the stock which will be sold the shipment includes the following special orders:

Shropshire ram, Mr. Bullock, Salt Spring; two rams, Mr. O'Rourke, Quilchena, near Kamloops, and one for Mr. Marsh. Langley: ten sheep, Mr. Reed, Victoria! five sheep for the Flockmasters' Asosciation; and pigs for Mr. Thompson (Chilliwnek), the Cariboo Trading Company, Major Mutter (Somenos), Jones Bros. PROVINCIAL POLITICS.

The Times asks: "Has the opposition not as much right to scheme to oust the government from power as the government has to intrigue to retain office?" We unhesitatingly answer this question in the affirmative, but wish to add that the public expects something more. What imaginable good do such schemes and intrigues do the public? Is any one better by them, except the individuals who come out successful and draw the salaries? The public has a right to expect that public men will think less of office and more of the best means of promoting the prosperity of the province. What earthly difference does it make to any one, except the individual himself who holds a portfelio, provided the afcountry are carried along progressive lines?

What is called the Independent Labor party has recently been formed, or rather the nucleus of such a party has been got tegether. What is the object of this party? What is there that the organizers wish to see dove, that those who do not affiliate with them do not? We have had a number of gentlemen named recently as the possible incumbents of cabinet positions in the near future. What policy does any one of them stand for, and will the people have any reason to think that the entry of any one of them into a government will mean that effect is to be given to those ideas and principles, which must be carried out in this province, if we are ever to enjoy a full measure of prosperity? A number of very excellent people are crying out for party lines. But surely party lines of themselves are of no imaginable advantage to the province. The opening up of the country, and the influx of people and capital will not be promoted by introducing federal lines into the local house, unless with such a step another is taken in the direction of an agressive policy. The News-Advertiser thinks the time auspicious to cannot revive a thing that never was alive. The Provincial Party existed little is said about them, or perteemed Vancouver contemporary. The teemed Vancouver contemporary. The fact that ideas like the foregoing are being advanced are proof of the popular But they are of little value otherwise. They represent an attempt to promote the public welfare by the use of There is no magic in words. It would be just as sensible to expect to promote provincial prosperity by shouting out "Abracadabra," as co hope to do so by inventing new parties, or simply making personal changes among office-

We repeat that the people want a policy. The Times says that the Colonist article on the future of Victoria is to be taken as indicating that the government is going to test its fate by an appeal to this constituency, and that we are preparing the way. This is simply an invention of our esteemed neighbor. The article in question was written with no such object. The reason for writing it, and for the other article on the same subject, which appears this morning, is that a number of copies of this paper have been ordered to be sent forward daily to meet the visitors who are coming West, including the press representatives. We are not without a hope that some of these peo ple will be sufficiently interested to this most westerly point on their journey to be willing to read something about it, and hence the articles were written. If the Times would not waste so much time being clever, and instead of seek-ing after sinister motives in Colonist articles, would endeavor to do something in the same direction, it would not be a bad thing for Victoria. Wheth er the government intends to propose any policy which will lead to the accomplishment of what we have indicated as the future of Victoria, we are not in a position to say, but we are able to say with the greatest certainty that the people of Victoria expect such a policy, and will not rest satisfied until they get it. The Times has thought best to introduce the name of Mr. Dunsmuir into this phase of the question, and for this reason, and for this only we will say that those who ascribe to the Premier any desire other than one to promote the welfare of Victoria do him a very great injustice. 'Although President of the Colonist Printing and Publishing Company, Mr. Dunsmuir does not interfere with the management of the Colonist. When this paper has any thing to say on his behalf, it says it in terms that leave no doubt upon that It has never spoken for Mr.

Duasmuir without expressly saying that it did so. Nevertheless, Mr. Dunsmuir has time and again been consulted on questions affecting this city, just as oth er persons interested in Victoria's welfare are at times consulted, and it is only an act of the simplest justice to say that he has always expressed the wish that the paper would take such a course as in the opinion of those directly concerned in managing it was calculated to benefit the city. This statement is not made with any political object, but solely that a much misrepresented gen-tleman may have justice done him.

It suits the purpose of the Times to sneer at the suggestion that Victoria become an important ocean terminal. But will our contemporary kindly drop politics long enough to tell us what its opinions are upon that point? We do not suggest that the advancement of Victoria's interest may not properly be a part of a political plat form. Indeed, we should think that platform a very poor one, which did not aim at such an object among others. But it would be interesting to have the opinion of the Times on the subject for so long a time has elapsed since it said anything about it, that we do not recall any expression of opinion on its part either for or against.

THE BUTTIRE OF VICTORIA

Some people will say that in giving the ocean-borne commerce of the Pacific the first place among the factors which will build up a prosperous city we have not paid due regard to what is to be expected from the development of Vancouver Island. We do not think so, for great as are the possibilities of this Island, we believe the chief future of the city will come from the expansion of Oriental trade. Never theless the natural wealth of Vancou ver Island is itself of such magnitude that, of there were nothing else to rely upon, Victoria might look forward to a growth and increase in wealth which would place her in a front rank among the cities of the Pacific Northwest.

There is now in progress within a com paratively short distance of this city and upon this Island an amount of mineral development, which in any other part of this Continent would attract great attention. If Mount Sicker and the adjacent country and the Alberni district alone be taken into account, there is enough being done to warrant the most hopeful anticipations. Here are mines that have reached the shipping stage, and are turning out excellent ore in steadily increasing quantities. When much less was being done in the copper belt of Kootenay, the whole world was ringing with stories of its prospective Two reasons may be given wealth. for the comparative indifference with which what is being done on this Island is treated. One reason is that it is a way we have here. It may not be a very good way, but it is characteristic of the Island. By way of illustration it may be mentioned that if a newspaper sends a reporter to any merchant in Scattle, Tacoma or Vancouver and asks what he is doing in supplying certain markets, the information is at once forthcoming. A Victoria merchant rather resents the question. The practice here, and we are not complaining of it, is to be reticent and not to grow enthusiastic. This quality of our people is one reason why more is not made public of what is being done in the Issaid about the Kootenay mines, when they were at the stage of development reached by the Island mines, is that those were the days when the wild cat was abroad in the land, and all manner of million-dollar companies were being floated. That sort of business has happily ended for the time, and we hope for a very long time. Hence there is no object for people who have nothing more than a few stakes driven in the ground to spend a lot of money telling what is being done on the developed mines. Mining on Vancouver Island is straight, legitimate business, with speculation about it. The men who are engaged in it know what they have, and are satisfied. But only a beginning has been made in metalliferous mining.

pected. The coal and timber of the Island are themselves a guarantee of an exceedingly prosperous future. In a recent issue of the Seattle Times Mr. James J. Hill, of the Great Northern, was quoted as saying that within twenty-five years the commerce of the Pacific would be greater than that of the Atlantic. Mr. Hill has given an earnest of the faith that is in him by the magnitude of the preparations he has made to handle that trade. In view of such development the existence on this Island of the finest timber lands in the world and many large and valuable deposits of coal possesses an importance that cannot be overestimated. The utilization of these immense resources is only a matter of time, and when they have once been turned to account the result will be seen here in a noble city worthy of being ranked among the most pros-

The Islander Investigation

Chief Steward Tells Of Rousing the Passengers After the Shock,

Capt Harris Says Officers Were Not Under Influence of Liquo:.

When the inquiry into the Islander disaster was resumed yesterday morning, Chief Steward George Simpson was recalled, and examined by Mr. Bodwell. He said he was in charge of the life preservers in the rooms on the steamer. He had no knowledge of their age. He preferred a cork life preserver to the

He had no knowledge of their age. He preferred a cork life preserver to the tule ones, being a heavy man.

Mr. Bodwell-But if tule was as good as cork, that would make no difference? Witness—The life preservers were laid out each time the steamer arrived in port and dusted. Witness did not, however, inspect them closely. When the accident occurred he went to the bridge and asked the pilot for orders. The pilot told him to call the mate and tell him to swing out the boats. He then went below and met the second steward. He neked him where the saloon watchman was, and the second steward replied that he had gone below to get the people out. Witness then said to the second steward: "You go along one side and I'll go along the other and get the neaple out." There were 26 men in his department. They were below. Witness told tho second steward to tell the watchman to call them as well as others. Did not tell the watchman to tell them as w his.

Witness said he told the second stew-Witness said he told the second stew-ard and saloon watchman to go below and call passengers, and went himself to do so. He gave no orders to others. He commenced at the forward end of the port side, at No. 34, he thought, and knocked at the doors, and turning the handle, opened most of them. He would not swear positively that he opened r.ll, but thought he did. The saloon was crowded and he had to push his way through.

Mr. Bodwell-Why did you not exerse your authority? Witness—Authority didn't cut much Witness—Authority didn't cut much figure.

Mr. Bodwell—How do you account for the fact that people in some of those staterooms were not called?

Witness—I do not know that it is a fact. When I saw a light and noticed through the panel of glass that the people were moving I did not knock. There was not a whole lot of time.

Mr. Bodwell—How much time was there?

nere; Witness—About seven or eight min-tes. There was not more than one or wo rooms in which I saw a light. Witness said he did not observe what Witness—No sir, it was not such that second steward was doing on the starboard side.

Mr. Bodwell—Is it a fact that you thought that you had better get out of there and got up yourself?

Witness—No, sir, it was not. I did not go until I saw that the passengers were out; I did not see anyone in the saloon but the saloon watchman when I left there. The lights had gone out then.

Mr. Bodwell—Why did you return to the deek after the first time, and before going up after the lights went out?

Witness—I went out to see if there were any boats left. I saw the second mate. He was putting on a life preserver. I asked him if he thought the vessel was going to sink, and then went into the saloon and put on a life preserver. The saloon watchman was there. I asked him if all verse out.

vessel was going to sink, and then went into the saloou and put on a life preserver. The saloon watchman was there. I asked him if all were out. He said they were. I got a life preserver and threw it down to the second steward, who was at the foot of the stains in the dining room. As I threw the life preserver down, I said: "Come, let's get out of th's." The lights went out then. We went to the upper deck the first time I helped some passengers to put on life preservers, among them Mr. and Mrs. Bowman and their boy. There were about fifteev or twenty passengers in the saloon when I came down. One asked me if there was any dauger, and I told them I didn't know.

Mr. Bodweil—Were there many on the upper deck when you went there?

Witness—There were some around the boats?

Mr. Bodweil—Did you not go up to see bonts?

Mr. Bodweli—Did you not go up to see if there were a boat you could get in?
Witness—I went up to see what were the chances to save myself.

Mr. Bodweli—You went out to get into a boat yourself? Was not that the principle idea is your mind?
Witness—It was net. I was as cool as I am now.

Witness—It was not. I was as cool as I am now.

Mr. Bodwell—Then can you give us any reason for going up on the upper deck again after you were told to call the passengers?

Witness—I can give no reason.

Mr. Bodwell—Were there notices of direction to assengers in the staterooms?

Witness—Yes.

called, and examined by Capt. Capt. LeBlanc came on the bridge again about 9:30 or 10 p.m. Witness was with him until midnight, and was in conversation with him. There was nothing in his manner to imply that he had been drinking. The captain was not on the bridge again while witness was there after leaving it about 9:30 or 10 p.m. Witness went to the main saloon from the bridge about midnight. Went to the the dining room then, Capt. Foote, Messrs. Morgan, White, Hart, Brown, Douglas, Roser, witness and the saloon watchman. All were having a midnight hunch. Witness went to get some lunch. They were drinking whiskey or something. From their conversation witness would not judge that they were excited. Witness did not drink himself or did he know what liquor went into the dining room. He saw no one drinking liquor. Saw one bottle on the table, All were in the dining room at the time of the accident. The captain was the first man on deck after the accident. Witness followed him. Witness—I did not. I can only speak for myself. I don't know if anyone else gave orders.

Continuing, witness said he helped lower the after boat on the port side when the other was in the water, all going from the forward boat to that boat. Thompson and the night watchman of the crow were there assisting. He did not know if others were. Witness was the last man to get in this boat. He saw someone slide down the tackle of the forward boat, but did not know if it was a member of the crew. Didn't know if any orders were given to the boat in which he was. There were no passengers on the upper deck when the boat was lowered and witness saw no passengers on the inain deck. It was decided by the purser, who was in the boat, to stay near the steamer. The boat was about a hundred yards from the vessel when she went down. Witness did not know if there were people in the water. He supposed that there would be. Continuing, he said the boat went ashore. Objections were made, and witness had spoken on the purser's side. He had expressed binself that they had better wait around the vicinity.

Mr. Bodwell—Why didn't you insist? Witness—What right had I to do so?

Witness—What right had I to do so? I had no jurisdiction over the officers or crew or over the boat.

Mr. Bodwell—Come now, you can't put yourself behind that. You had certain duties, which we'll discuss another time. I'm asking questions now. Why did you not advise the purser?

Opening of The Kirmess

Scene at the Market Hall a Most Entrancing One.

Large Attendance and a Most Successful First Night's Entertainment

The market hall was densely crowded last night long ere Mr. R. L. Drury introduced His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, who opened the grand church fair given under the auspices of the Kirmess Society of the Metropolitan Methodist church and the Daughters of Pivy of the Jubilee hospital. The Kirmess is a magnificent bazanr, only much more so. To describe all that was to be seen there would necessitate many columns. To tell what was not there could be told in seant words. The profusely decorated and strangely attractive booths, with their uniquely dressed Greechens of the Marguerite type; Geishas like Mimosa, who sat on little mats, and poured ten a la Japonaise; veiled Orientals who inveigled rurchasers to buy rich rugs or Turkish ornaments; dark hued Spanish maidens with guitar and tamborine, who sought purchasers for rich laces, and other articles that tempted the purse; Uncle Sam's and Puritan maidens of the American booth. All these and many others, clad in dresses of many lands about the seven seas. It was in fact a geography lesson to think out the lands represented in the various booths and by the attendants thereto.

To look over the whole scene, with its

To look over the whole scene, with its ever-changing spectacle of kaleidoscopie grandeur, its brilliant color, and entrancing gorgeousness, was indeed a treat to the eye. It was an embryo Cave of Aladdin or other corner of fairyland, where fairies had been hard at work. These fairies, who were responsible for this brilliant scene, must indeed have worked hard. Flags, pennants and standards were suspended here and there around the galleries, bunting was looped here and there, long garlands were arched from the ceiling, the decoration was profuse. Up-stairs along the spacious galleries were the booths. As the spectator reaches the top of the stairs, the German booth is seen on the right and there everything is to be bought from dolls and toys to ginger pop and peanuts. This booth has a sitting room fitted and furnished in a manner that would put the average parlor to shame, where tea and coffee is served. The booth was, in charge of many Gretchens, with two twists o? blond and brunette hair, as the case might be, hanging down their backs. They were dressed in truly German style, with the bodices and short skirts of the Fatherland. Those in charge of the booth were: Mrs. Mc-Koown, Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Dee, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Cusack, Mrs. Smith, Mrs.

The Gy,sy encampment was next reached, hidden away in the corner behind a forest of evergreen, and with its Bohemian Girl effect with fire and Bohemian Girl effect with fire and tree sward. In two tents sat the formation tellers, and the long strings of waiting people desirous of using their kill showed that they were patronized. The gypsies of the encampment wandered about selling noncorn, nearnits. The Canadian booth, with its crossed snowshoes, its moose heads, salmon, its miniature tents and miners, and its great array of things Canadian and things British Columbian, was much admired. Those who attended this booth were: Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Dalby, Mrs. Mr. T. Appleby, Miss Hattie Ross, Miss Louise Preston, Miss Potts, Miss Mabel Haynes, Miss Georgina Potts, Miss Belle Netherby, Miss W. Lugrin.

The French booth was the entrepot of many pretty little articles of brica-brac, and a pretty galaxy of attendants beguiled many a purchaser into carrying the good things away and leaving his coin behind. ### THE CURE OF DEAFNESS

An interesting extract from an Engdish medical review, "The Journal for the Deaf," having been published last week in this paper concerning the discovery of a cure for Deafness, a number of readers have written to us on the subject asking for additional information. We would remind them that they can write direct to the English
Drouet Institute, 72 Regent's Park-road, London, England. The Secretary will soud them, a copy of "The Journal for the Deaf," in which the Drouet treatment is described in full detail, together with a pathological report form, which will help them to state their cases with great exactitude, and thus enable the Institute to prescribe the treatment needful for their cure.

Refused to Pay.—Fifteen sealers were summoned to appear in the city police court yesterday for refusing to pay their revenue tax. Two appeared and paid the tax, after being served with a summons, but the other thirteen have not shown up and the magistrate ordered that they pay the tax and the costs of court, amounting to $2 each. Most of the men have left the city, so the city loses what they would have spent had not an effort been made to collect the tax. The only other case set for yesterday in the city police court was that of a drunk, who had been allowed out on bail and not appearing forfeited the $10 which he had deposited to secure his release.

Yesterday morning Instructor McDougall first gave lessons on testing milk, explaining how to tell when the readings were correct and impressing the exactness in all the details in order to get correct readings. The ordinary adulterations of milk supplied to the creamery and cheese factory and in the retail trade of cities are those of watering and skimming. The adulteration of milk by the addition of preservatives to improve its keeping quality is a very bad practice. The only means that should be resorted to in this respect are not the use of chemical reagents, but of the efficient tion of heat and cold. The detection of the chemical uncans afforded in the application of heat and cold. The detection of the chemical adulterations of milk is largely the work of the chemist, if the tests are to be reliable. As the different tests are applied the kind of adulterations with milk and water the Baboock test and Quevenue lactometer serve for all practical purposes. The Quevenne iactometer has a scale reading from 15 to 40 and indicates a specific gravity of 1.015 to 1.040. It is standardized at a temperature of 60 deg. Fally, and by its use we compare the weight of milk at 60 deg. With that of pure water at 60 deg. If milk be skimmed a certain volume of the skimmed portion will weigh more than an equal volume of the original milk, because the lightest constituent of the original or whole milk has been removed. The lactometer will indicate this late is skimmed portion will weigh more coan; an equal volume of the original milk, because the lightest constituent of the original or whole milk has been removed. The lactometer will indicate this by a higher reading. On the other hand, if a sample of milk be watered a certain volume of the watered sample will weigh less than an edual volume of the original sample because a liquid which is lighter than milk has been added to it. The specific gravity of whole milk ordinarily ranges from 1.030 to 1.033. A low lactometer reading and a low per cent. of fat indicates watering. A high lactometer reading and a low per cent. of fat indicates watering. A high lactometer reading and a low per cent. of fat indicates skimming. A normal lactometer reading and a low per cent. of fat indicates watering and skimming. The separation of the milk was then commenced, using two of the standard machines, the Melotte and Alpha, Milk is in its best condition for separating immediately after it has been drawn from the cow, as there is at this time the greatest differences in weight or density between the fat and serum solids and because it is most fluid at this time. The life of a separator depends unon the work it does and care that is taken of it. The favorable conditions under which a separator may run are keeping the speed rather above than at or below the tabulated speed; feeding rather less milk than more or what is indicated by its rated capacity; in case the milk has cooled, heating it to a temperature approximating that of the animal body; having the machine, running smoothly or free from vibration.

The prevailing of conditions the very opposite to the foregoing would constifree from vibration.

The prevailing of conditions the very opposite to the foregoing would constitute unfavorable conditions for a separator to do good and efficient work. Some of the chief advantages the use of a ator to do good and efficient work. Some of the chief advantages the use of a cream separator has over the deep or shallow-pan methods of creaming are (a) a reduction to a minimum of the loss of fat in the skim milk; (b) it secures a better and more uniform quality of cream and secures it at a time that its fermentation can be controlled by the doutter-maker; (c) the skim milk is in better condition for feeding purposes; (d) it secures a precipitation in the separator bowl of the more objectionable solids of the milk and of dirt that has gained entrance to it subsequent to its withdrawal from the cow. By the use of a separator the creaming of milk is accomplished almost instantly, whereas by the old gravity method imperfect separation was secured even after the lapse of days. The size of the fat grobules and the viscosity of the milk, which are such controlling factors in the gravity method of creaming, exert very little influence upon the efficiencies of the cream separator.

In the afternoon Superiatendent Hopskins prepared for the churning. Before doing so he had the students examine the cream which was separated the previous day, and ripened for churning, noting flavor and body, and comparing with the unripened cream. He then 'x-plained the importance of having a good starter. Some time was taken up in discussing the various changes that pected Deaths Which Result Constipation a Frequent cacy of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Kidney disease may last for years, and at fimes may seem to disappear entirely, but unless radical treatment is taken death is likely to result at some amexpected moment. The most frequent cause of kidney ailments is constipation and neglect to keep the bowless regular and active. Alth constipation the excretory functions of the kidneys fails, the convoluted tubes become choked up, and the tissues are gradually wasted away. The liver cells also are compressed and destroyed, and the most complicated ailments arise.

So far as is known, Dr. Chase's Kid-compressed and destroyed, and the most complicated ailments arise.

So far as is known, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the only treatment that gets at the cause of kidney disease by quickening and regulating the action of the intestines, as well as invigorating and restoring the kidneys themselves. There must be some great secret for the phenomenal and continual success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Gradually the demand for them has increased, until now there is no similar remedy that has anything like the sale of this great prescription. It seems safe to conclude that much is due to the fact that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have a direct and combined influence on kidneys, liver and bowels. Mr. Wm. Boyne of 19 McGes street, Toronto, says: "I was afflicted severely with kidney disease, stone in the bladder, incontinence, deposits in the wrine, severe pains in the back, and strains over the loins. I was so bad that I had to get up two or three times in the night, and could then only make water with great pain.

take place and the best temperature? To ripen the cream, then how to make and use a starter. In the meantime the churn was started and in about 30 minutes the butter was in grains about the size of rice. Some seven lady students watched closely the whole process, and during this time many questions were asked and answered, and before leaving some were heard to say there was going to be a change in their dairy in the near future.

Health and Vitality For the Old People

Wasted muscles, shattered nerves and failing strength may result from old age as well as from disease. As old age creeps on, vitality is lowered, the heart boats more slowly, the blood becomes thin and watery, and the power of resistance is lessened. It is the old people above all others who require the new life and energy which comes with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Scores and hundreds of old people depend on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to restore their exhausted nerve force and replace their wasted tissues. It calms and quiets the nerves, gradually and certainly enriches the blood and builds up the system, and makes old people feel again the thrill of new life and vigor in their shrivelled arteries. From childhood to old age this famous food cure is the greatest blessing which medical science has bestowed on mankind.

Mr. A. J. Dallain, assistant to the local agent of Marine and Fisheries, examined by Commissioner Capt. This life preserver was taken from the inspector's office to the customs house and weighed. It weighed four pounds, eight ounces. It was then taken to the wharf and 38 pounds of lead attached. It floated. Then 50 pounds of lead dure placed on it, and it sunk altogether. Mr. Bodwell said there were one or two other witnesses to be called, but he wanted to see them first, to find out if they had any new facts to tell. If not, they would not be called. There were a number of witnesses across the Sound and some in California. Some would not come, and others were so far away that it would be too expensive to have them come. Mr. Davis said that there were some witnesses in Vancouver, Including Lester Gill, R. P. McLennan and Mr. Hinde-Bowker, and these gen tlemen will be called.
